Now, we have seen all this sort of writing before, and we never saw it resorted to only in a bad cause. What we have said about California Protest from the Immigration Union was predicated on the assertion of others. We gave names, facts and figures. That California is a great State no one will deny. A Protest from the Immigration Union.

To the Editors of the Appeal: CALIFORNIA IMMIGRATION UNION, SAM FRANCISCO, May 20, 1875. The article which appeared in the issue of May 16, 1875, of the Memphis APPEAL, is "too thin" to turn the mind of thinking people. it is a series of gross misrepresentations from begin-ning to end, and the object of it is too plain to be mistaken, namely: To turn the tide of emigration from California to the southern States. For the benefit of those who are in doubt as to where to go to make the best living, let me ask why they should go to the south and work for fifteen or twenty dollars per month in currency, when in California they can get from thirty to forty dollars in gold? Why should they compete with the cheap negro labor, with whom they never could nor never will get slong harmoniously, when they can come to a State where wages range the same, where the climate is far superior, and where living is so much cheaper? For men of small means this State presents inducements offered by no other part of the world. Here they can buy their small farms at a low figure and on good time, or they can settle on government or railroad lands, of consequently their expenses will be much Here a farmer has from December until the middle of March to sow his grain, and from June until October to cut and thresh it without danger of its | he will be overcrowded in this country, being caught in the rain and lost. The or if he lacks the energy to find room 'no fence law" is in force in many of and occupation for himself, he had best the counties, thereby saving the farmer | remain at Memphis, and we will try to of small means that heavy expense. Houses here, owing to the climate, need only be mere shells, as far as comfort is concerned, thereby saving another big expense. Last, but not least, even in our warmest weather in summer our nights are cool, and one always arises in the morning refreshed and rested, and can do much more work than if he tossed and rolled all night, unable to sleep from heat, mosquitoes, etc. For the laboring classes the wages offered here are the first inducement, the climate next, and the mode of farming next. In Californ nia improved machinery of all Kinds, such as sulky-rakes, gaug-plows, head ers and steam-threshers, etc., are used making farm labor much less laborious than in the eastern and southern States The demand for good, reliable, skilled labor of all kinds is very great, and there means who buys land needs help; every man of means who goes into any kind of business needs help; every man of small means who settles on government ing men, in a few years, by industry and land-owners, and need help, and their old places must be filled. These being indisputable facts, where, let me ask the Memphis APPEAL, is the danger for laboring men, and mean of small means, in emigrating to California? If a man is a mechanic, he can command from two and a half to four dollars per day. The cost of room-rent for housekeeping and living even in San Francisco, for a family of three or four, would be only from thirty-five to forty dollars per month. Let me say to those contemplating a home in California, that there is room for thousands, yes, milliens, of good, honest, indusmen and women. It trious every man enjoys the rights and privileges bestowed upon him by the constitution. We have no carpetbag usurpers here to be placed in power by fraud and perjury; we have no fifteenth amendment troubles to contend with. We say to all seeking homes, no matter how and we say to men of means, who are trying to increase their wealth, come to California. I inclose an extract from one of our papers. If ever you come to California, I will do everything in my power to make your visit agreeable, and I am sure you will change your views about California. Really, our State needs no advertising, for enough is known of it already, from reliable sources, to induce a good class of im-migration. We who have lived here for twenty to twenty-five years could not be induced to live elsewhere. We do not wish to induce any one to follow our example unwillingly. Some of the best men we have in California are from Tennessee, and I am sure their statements about California can be relied upon. I am going east next month, and will try and call upon you, to assure you that although your article is really in-tended to hinder emigration hither, we have no unkind feelings toward you on that account. Truly yours,

We have, and do regard it as especially a poor man's country; we all came here poor, and many of us are poor as the day we came, but there are so many prosperous people, and the experience is so univer-sal, that industry and economy lead to plenty, to ease and to wealth, that we lay down the axiom, that with judgment, industry, economy and exemp-tion from the accidents of life, any and every man may secure wealth-if not wealth, at least independence. It looks very much as though there were a preconcerted action upon the part of the southern journals to arrest the emigration from their States. They will fall; they might as well endeavor to dam up the waters of their great liver with bulrushes as by falsehoods and misstatements to prevent intelligent people from coming to the Pacific coast. As a community there is none more prosperous. While depression and monetary troubles embarrass the eastern States, we have gold coin, abundant crops, immunity from grasshoppers, and freedom from tempestuous winters. We have lands and timbers and fisheries and gold placers and silver mines to give away, and we have enough for ten millions of people; we have hundreds of thousands of acres of vine and fruit lands upon sunny hillsides inviting occu-pation. We have forest and timber lands by the hundreds of square miles that may be appropriated without cost. We have plains and valleys as broad as Tennessee that have neither owners nor occupants. We have a million mines that with labor and machinery would enrich the finder. We have a field of labor that extends from the thirty-second to the forty-eighth parallel of latitude; we have a breadth of ten parallels of longitude. We have every variety of production, and every kind of mineral, and we have a commerce which there are thouands of that traffics with six hundred millions acres still unoccupied.
